HISTORY

OF THE

REDMAN FARM.

THE REDMAN FARM, so called, is situated near the Eastern boundary of the territory that was formerly called the New Grant, in the town of Dorchester, Massachusetts. Afterwards, on Dec'r 19, 1715, that territory was incorporated into a new precinct or parish, and called Dorchester South Precinct. Afterwards that territory, except what, in 1724, was set off to Wrentham, was, on 22d Dec'r, 1726, incorporated into a new town by the name of Stoughton; and the farm is in the Easterly part of that portion of the old town of Stoughton that was set off and on Feb'y 23, 1797, incorporated into a new town by the name of Canton.

This farm is, of course, a small fraction of the territory described in the Colonial and Provincial Charters of Massachusetts, granted by the Kings of England, the former in 1628, and the latter in 1691, but which latter arrived here and went into effect in May 1692.

Dorchester, in 1636, extended Southerly only as far as the top of Blue Hill; but by order of the General Court, on November 20, 1637, it was extended to the bounds of the Colony of Plymouth; and thereby what is now Canton, Stoughton, Sharon, Foxborough and a large portion of Wrentham, Southerly to the line of Plymouth Colony, was granted to and made part of Dorchester. This was the addition called the New Grant.

The Indians on the Neponset River having sold away all their lands there, and having proceeded to Punkapog and located, Rev. John Eliot, by letter dated 4th day, 4th month, 1657, applied to Major Atherton of Dorchester, to have that town make an order and record it in their town records, to allow the Indians to reside at Pun-kapog, and make a town there, and that the town of Dorchester would appoint suitable men, who in due season should bound and lay out the land and make record of such laying out.

At a town meeting in Dorchester, Dec. 7, 1657, it was voted that the town give a plantation to the Indians at Punkapog, and also that Hon. Major Atherton, Lieut. Clapp, Ensign Foster, and William Sumner be desired and empowered to lay out the Indian Plantation at Punkapog, not exceeding six thousand acres; and that the Indians should not alienate or sell their plantation or any part of it.

By a statute, both of the Colony and Province, all sales and conveyances of lands procured by or from indians to any person or persons since 1633, without the license of the General Court, were null and void and of no effect.

This plantation was laid out according to the vote. From the plan thereof made by John Butcher, surveyor, in the year 1696,—it is described and bounded as follows, to wit:—

Beginning at a point on the Northerly side of Punkapog Pond, about 25 rods Southwesterly of the point where the dividing line between Canton and Randolph crosses the Pond, and thence running, what was in 1696, West eleven degrees North, 336 rods, bounding Northerly on land then of Capt. John Foster to the old road; then continuing the same course 200 rods until you come to Punkapog Brook; then continuing the same course 52 rods more, to the corner of land of John Holbrook; and during said last named 252 rods, bounding Northerly on lot No. 5, which belonged to Daniel Preston, Samuel Paul, David Jones, and a Mr. Proctor; then continuing the same course and bounding Northerly on land of John Holbrook, a distance of 47 rods, to a point within about 25 rods of Burnt Swamp, so called. This was the North side of the Punkapog Plantation, and was a straight line 635 rods, or about two miles long.

From the last named point then turn and run South, 28 degrees West, as it was in 1696, one mile, one quarter and sixty-two rods, as follows, viz, 36 rods on lands of John Holbrook; 125 rods on lot No 6, belonging to Thomas Andrews; and 301 rods on lot No. 7, belonging to Richard Baker; then turning South $4\frac{1}{2}$ degrees West 166 rods: thence South 34 degrees West 264 rods, to a point within about 48 rods of the stream on which stands the Stone Factory so called. This was the Westerly side of the Punkapog Plantation, and is about $2\frac{3}{4}$ miles in length.

Then turning and running, by the course of 1696, South $44\frac{1}{2}$ degrees East 72 rods to the stream on which stands the Stone Factory; thence up stream by the wasteway of the Stone Factory, the wasteway of the Revere Copper Works, and the wasteway of the Iron Works of Oliver Ames & Sons to the point on Washington Street where the natural stream crosses said street or road; thence up stream to the point where Beaver Brook flowing from the Shovel Works of Oliver Ames & Sons originally met Pequit Brook flowing down from what is now the Reservoir Pond; thence up stream up Pequit Brook, a distance of about 72 rods, and then East 20 degrees South, a distance of 800 rods to a point about 30 rods distant from the Range line between the 4th and 5th Ranges; which line of 800 rods, sometimes called the Dorchester line, crossed the road leading to Dorchester Swamp, (now in Stoughton,) now called Pleasant Street, and coincided some distance with one of the Southerly lines of what is now the Almshouse Farm of Canton, formerly owned and occupied by Roger Sherman, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence; and which line of 800 rods was the Northerly bound of part of lot No. 31, belonging 175 years ago to widow Pelton, of lot No. 52 of 325 acres, belonging to Wm. Robinson and Samuel Robinson, and of lot No. 53, of 600 acres, belonging to Capt. Capen and John Capen, and of lot No. 54, of 73 acres, belonging to John Blake, and at its Easterly end was the Northerly head of the 5th range.

This was the Southerly side of the Punkapog Plantation, and measuring by a straight line from the Southwest corner to the Easterly corner the side overruns $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles in length by about 15 rods.

Then turning so as to make with the last named line an angle of about 82 degrees, it runs one mile and $\frac{2}{3}$ ths, crossing the York road a distance of about 50 rods; then turning Westerly about a right angle with the last named line, runs one mile and 66 rods on the Southerly side of Capt. Clapp's Farm. At the end of about one quarter of a mile from the said last named turn you come into the road leading through the Farms, so called, and cross the road. At the end of said one mile and 66 rods you turn so as to make an angle of about 115 degrees with the last line and then run one half a mile and ten rods to a station on the Northeasterly side of the road leading from the Farms to what is now Punkapog village, so called;—then turning 15 degrees more Easterly than the last named line and run 50 rods, thence turning 33 degrees more Easterly of North than the last named line, and run 125 rods to the margin of Punkapog Pond, at a point about 15 rods Southerly of the ancient and natural mouth of the brook leading through Punkapoag village; and thence across the pond in a straight line, or by the shore of the pond, to the place of beginning.

This Punkapoag line is delineated in the last County Map of Norfolk County, published in the year 1858, by Smith & Bumstead.

Charles Redman was the youngest son of Robert Redman, formerly of Dorchester, but who was a resident of Milton, at the date of his will, Dec. 30, 1678, which was probated January 31, 1679.

Robert Redman was appointed administrator on the estate of his father, Charles Redman, June 14, 1725.

The inventory of his estate bears date July 25, 1725.

How Mary Redman, the wife of Thomas Spurr, jr., one of the three surviving daughters named in the will of her father, the elder Robert Redman, thereby taking one-fifth of one half of his real estate, after the death of her mother, who survived her several years, came to own Alexander Fisher's Pond Pasture and the Nathaniel French estate, we cannot now fully explain by record — but it was inventoried under oath as her estate.

(1.) The Inventory of the estate of Mary Spurr, widow, returned March 17, 1780.

“To piece of land containing 22 acres with part of a house thereon £1200.” appraised by

JAMES ENDICOTT.

WM. WHEELER.

NATHL FISHER.

Redman Spurr her eldest surviving son was the administrator on her estate.

Then again see Probate Records, Boston, Vol. 82, folio 353, the real estate of said Mary Redman, was appraised for settlement pursuant to warrant of the Judge of Probate directed to and they find it to be "mowing, orcharding, pasture and swamp, not capable of division," and that the value of it is £6. s15. d8. silver money, per acre and containing 21 acres, and all appraised at the sum of £142. s9. lawful money.

JAMES HAWKES LEWIS.
ADAM BLACKMAN.
NATH'L FISHER.

(N. B. By lawful money is meant \$3.33 $\frac{1}{3}$ to a pound.)

(2.) Redman Spurr, the eldest son of widow Mary Spurr, was entitled, by the statutes of descent then in force, to a double portion — and though the estate was returned incapable of division, there is no record showing that it was all set off to him, nor are there upon record deeds or any deed to him of their shares from his brothers and sisters or either of them — but conveyances of the whole through Redman Spurr have been ever since acquiesced in without controversy. — And in the deed of Archibald McKendry to Isaac Billings, dated April 11, 1789, recorded Norfolk Records of Deeds, Book 33, folio 49 and 50, of the Nath'l French estate, is this recital, "it being a part of the land I bought of Redman Spurr some time since"; and in the deed of the Easterly portion of the Pond Pasture by said McKendry to Ezekiel Fisher, dated April 2, 1790, and proved and recorded July 6, 1870, said Redman Spurr, is a subscribing witness.

(3.) There must have been a deed by Redman Spurr to Archibald McKendry who died in the year 1806, of Fisher's Pond Pasture and of the Nath'l French estate, but no such deed was recorded in Suffolk County Records of Deeds, nor in Norfolk County Records of Deeds; and John and William, sons of Archibald McKendry, have searched but cannot find the original deed. —

Third. Of Fisher's Pond Pasture.

(4.) Archibald McKendry by deed dated June 26, 1788, recorded

Book 10, folio 82, for £28, s12 and d4, conveyed to Ezekiel Fisher, Jr. :—

“A certain tract or parcel of land lying in said Stoughton, containing eight acres and twenty-nine rods of land, by measure, bounding Southerly on land that belongs to the widow Jerusha Billings or her son Robert Billings, Northerly on land of Seth Stowbridge’s, Easterly and Westerly on the remainder of the said McKendry’s land, also said Fisher is to have a leading way, road or lane provided by said McKendry, from the Westerly end of the above granted land, next to land that belongs unto the heirs of Elijah Crane, deceased, to the Country road, so as to drive a team with a cart and other necessary uses, to pass and repass to and from the same, said Fisher his heirs and assigns, to shut proper gates and put up bars proper for securing the land, and said McKendry to make and maintain suitable gates or bars for the same, also said McKendry reserves a right for himself, his heirs and assigns, to pass and repass acrost the above described land sold by him to said Fisher, unto his land at the Easterly end of the same, by a leading way, or to pass or repass with a team, he to shut gates or put up bars necessary to secure the land, which gates and bars are to be provided by said Fisher ; also said McKendry is to dig a suitable Ditch acrost his land at the Easterly end of the above granted piece of land, so that the water may run to the Eastermost point of the above granted land ; and said Fisher is to have free liberty to turn the water that runs in a Ditch between Mr. Lewis’ and said McKendry’s land in said Ditch, so as to bring the water into the Eastermost point of said Fisher’s land to water his cattle, &c. in the best manner he can, all which bounds of the same land may more fully appear by a plan of the same granted land drawn by Abner Crane, which is hereunto annexed.”

(5.) Archibald McKendry, by deed dated April 2, 1790, witnessed by Redman Spurr, and proved in Probate Court and recorded July 6, 1870, conveyed to Ezekiel Fisher, Jr., “a certain piece of land lying in said Stoughton, containing by estimation six acres, be the same more or less, bounded as followeth, viz : Beginning at the Northeast corner of said Ezekiel Fisher’s land, he lately bought of said McKendry before, and running Easterly, bounding Northerly on Seth Stowbridge’s land, then running Northerly bounding on said Stowbridge’s land on the Pond Bank, so called, until it comes to land of James Hawkes Lewis ; then running Easterly on an old ditch to a crotched tree and bounding on said Lewis' land, still on Easterly to a stake and bounding on the Pond Bogs, then running Westerly bounding on Doct. John Sprague's land until it comes to said Fisher's land, then it bounds Westerly on said Fisher's land till it comes to the bounds first mentioned—to be computed as the fence and bounds now stand—being all said McKendry's land Easterly of said Fisher's."

(6.) In 1807 partition was made as before stated of Ezekiel Fisher's real estate among his heirs, and the whole set to his son, Alexander Fisher, and among the lots set out in the return on the warrant was:—

“The Pond pasture so called, containing 14 acres, 0 qrs., 29 rods, was purchased by said deceased of Archibald McKendry, at two separate purchases, is bounded Northerly on lands of heirs of James H. Lewis, deceased, Westerly on lands of Seth Strobridge, Southeasterly on lands of John Tucker, and Easterly on lands of said James H. Lewis.”

(7.) Alexander Fisher, by deed dated 20th June, 1870, recorded Sept. 8th, 1870, in consideration of $700. conveyed to Henry L. Pierce “a certain tract of land, situate in Canton aforesaid, being a part of the Redman farm, anciently so called, and supposed to contain fourteen acres and twenty-nine rods, sometimes called the Pond Pasture, and bounded Easterly by land of said Henry L. Pierce, purchased by him of the heirs of the late Capt. William Tucker, Southerly in part by the homestead of Nathaniel French and in part by land of said Pierce, purchased by him of the heirs of the late Isaac Horton, Northerly by the Puffer Ditch, sometimes called the Gerald Ditch, where the bogs or boggy part of the conveyed premises is supposed to come to, or terminate in an angle, where one long stake deep in ground and pointed at the bottom, old at the top apparently and new as in the bog, is in the Westerly bank of the said Puffer Ditch, and another stake is near by in the middle of the ditch; Northerly by the bog or cranberry meadow of Mrs. Rebecca Hanscom, and by the Northerly boundary line as described as the Northerly boundary lines in two deeds from Archibald McKendry to my father Ezekiel Fisher: the first of which deeds is dated June 26, 1788, and recorded in the Norfolk Registry of deeds, Lib. 10, folio 82; the second of which deeds is dated April 2, 1790, and as yet is unrecorded—meaning to convey hereby the same premises conveyed by said McKendry to my father by the aforesaid deeds, and the bogs thereto belonging and nothing more; referring to said deeds.”

The executors of Robert Redman's will rendered their account in 1771 in which they recite that they had sold £ 19 in value of real estate to pay debts.

For the purpose of a history of the Redman Farm since the time when Robert Redman, sen'r died seized in 1769, we may divide the subject into four parts, viz: —

First, of the Sprague part of it: of which the two Doctors Sprague, father and son died seized and which on the partition of the real estate of the latter was set off to his daughter, Mrs. Swett, and by her sold to John Tucker, and by him (except the triangular acre South Westerly of Stoughton turnpike, sold to his son Robert Tucker,) conveyed to his son the late Capt. Wm. Tucker.

Second.—Of the Isaac Horton Estate.

Third.—Of Mr. Alex'r Fisher's Pond Pasture.

Fourth.—Of the Nath'l French estate.

First, then,—Of the Sprague part of said farm: —

1st Samuel Davenport, and Mary Redman executors of the will of Robert Redman, pursuant to license of the August Term 1770, of the Superior Court of Judicature held at Boston, by deed dated Dec'r 2, 1771, recorded Book 124, folio 176, in consideration of £ 10, conveyed to Doct'r John Sprague "a certain piece of land lying in said Stoughton, containing fifteen acres, being a part of the real estate of the said Robert Redman, deceased, being bounded with the road leading through Stoughton the breadth of one rod, or 26 links of Gunter's chain, and from thence the granted premises runs in said Sprague's line (keeping the aforesaid breadth of twenty five links) and running East, eleven and an half degrees North, according to the needle the distance of nine chains and seventy two links to a fence, at which place the Northerly line of said piece of one rod wide runs Northerly at right angles with said Sprague's line, so far as to complete the above quantity, and the Southerly line continues the same course above written the distance of twenty-five chains and ten links to a stake and stones; and from thence the line runs East 43 degrees South until it comes to the bogs by Punkapog Pond, and from thence the line varies Easterly and Northerly, running between said bogs and the trees or swampy land, and must proceed so far Northerly as that a straight line running parallel with the first mentioned line and intersecting the line above said that makes a right angle with Sprague's line, shall complete the full quantity of fifteen acres of land above granted."

2nd. The will of John Redman, the other son of the first Robert Redman, probated Dec. 4, 1761, before Thomas Hutchinson, Judge of Probate, gave to his mother, "the Widow Mary Redman, all and singular the movables, cloathing and every thing of all sorts that is my estate at my decease, she paying my just debts and funeral charges, by her and her heirs to be possessed and forever enjoyed."

Subscribing witnesses,

John McKendry, Elijah Crane, John Kenny.

Robert Redman 2nd. His agreement of division with his mother :

3. This agreement made the twenty-third day of March, in the eighth year of his Majesties Reign Annoque Domini, one Thousand seven hundred and sixty eight, between Mary Redman of Stoughton, in the County of Suffolk and province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England, and the widow of Robert Redman of said Town and County, yeoman, deceased, of the one part, and her son Robert Redman of the same Town, County and Province aforesaid, yeoman, of the other part, Witnesseth that the said Robert Redman, dec'd, by his last Will and testament gave to his widow the improvement of one half of his real estate, and the other half he gave to his son Robert as by said last will may appear, which said Real estate lying in Stoughton aforesaid, containing about one hundred and eighteen acres more or less with the buildings thereon, is bounded Southerly with Punkapoag Brook, Easterly with Punkapoag Pond, Northerly with the lines of lands belonging to James Hawkes Lewis, Elihu Crane, Samuel Trowbridge and Elijah Crane, Westerly with the great road, and about sixteen acres of land, more or less, lying in Braintree near the aforesaid pond, both of said parcels of land have hitherto lain in common and undivided between the said parties, it is therefore the intent of these presents that a perpetual division and partition of the above mentioned premises and other real estate be made and established between them in the following manner, viz. that the said Mary Redman shall have the Northerly half part on which the dwelling house stands, and all the dwelling house and half the barn which is also on the same half part of land hereafter described, (reserving to the said Robert Redman or his legal representatives those parts of the dwelling house that he now occupies without control, and convenient room about the house for laying wood and passing to and fro from the same to the barn and road for the term of two years from the above said date,) the aforesaid Northerly half part contains about fifty nine acres of land and the dividing line begins at a stake and stone East of the road and twenty rods to the Northward of the aforesaid brook, and from thence runs East eleven degrees and a half North (according to the needle,) the distance of about one hundred and forty one rods to a stake and stone heap, and from thence running East forty three degrees and a half South until it comes to the above said Punkapoag pond. All that part of the premises that lies to the Northward or North Eastward of the above dividing line is in full of the said widow Mary Redman's half part of the said real estate herein proposed to be divided, and the said Robert Redman, his heirs and assigns, shall have the remaining half part that lies to the Southward or South westward of the above dividing line, containing fifty nine acres of land, more or less, together with the abovesaid sixteen acres of land lying in Braintree, and the remaining half of the abovesaid barn in common with his mother, and convenient room about said half for cattle and for passing to and from the said barn with a cart or cattle at all times proper therefor, so long as said barn shall continue to be useful for preserving fodder and housing of cattle, but not to have any use of any of the lands for the aforesaid purposes after the said half part of the barn ceases to be useful as aforesaid; all which is in full of the said Robert Redman's half part of the real estate herein proposed to be divided.—Now this Agreement Witnesseth for the confirmation of the aforesaid division, that we, the parties hereto, Mary Redman and Robert Redman, for ourselves, our heirs, Ex'ors, Adm'rs and assigns, do hereby Grant, assign, release, quit-claim, ratify and confirm, each unto the other, all the right, title and interest that we now have in or to the divided premises in which we are hereinbefore excluded, and do hereby covenant each with the other to warrant and defend each the other in the quiet possession of each of their parts and shares as above divided and set off to them against the lawful claims and demands of all persons whomsoever legally claiming any right, title or interest therein or thereto, from, by, or under us, hereafter forever. In witness whereof we, the said Mary Redman and Robert Redman, have hereunto set our hands and seals the day and year first above written:— Mary Redman her X mark and seal. Robert Redman and seal. Signed, Sealed and Delivered in the presence of Joseph Aspinwall, John

And this same land now granted and sold was heretofore a part of my homestead farm, but was intersected and cut off therefrom by building the aforesaid Stoughton Turnpike road.”

How Jerusha, (one of the three surviving daughters named in the will of her father, Robert Redman the elder, thereby taking one fifth of one half of all his real estate, after the death of her mother.) the wife of Seth Billings, and who after Billings' death married Nathaniel Pittee, came to own not only the four acres she sold to Dr. Sprague, 27 April, 1789, and the eight and a half acres she must have conveyed to her son, Robert Billings, who sold the same to Dr. Sprague, March 31, 1789, but also the homestead estate of the late Isaac Horton, we cannot fully explain by record, but conveyances of all the same under her have ever since been acquiesced in without controversy.

Second.—Of the estate of the late Isaac Horton:—

1. Nath'l Pittee and Jerusha Pettee, wife of said Nath'l, for £5 lawful money, conveyed unto her daughter, Zeruah Gooch, wife of Samuel Gooch, by deed dated April 10, 1795, recorded in Norfolk Registry of Deeds, Lib. 5, folio 184,—

Thence turning and running a straight line, Southerly two rods and eight feet, striking the fence of said Doct'r Sprague's at his land, thence Westerly as the fence now stands till it comes to the bounds first mentioned. — And also, we, the said Nathaniel and Jerusha, do by these presents grant, sell, convey and confirm unto her, the said Zeruiah Gooch, her heirs and assigns forever, the privilege and indulgence of going to and from the well, that we, the said Nath'l and Jerusha do now improve, in order that water may be had therefrom for the use of said Zeruiah and heirs as aforesaid, and the said Zeruiah and heirs are laid under the injunction of pursuing the nearest course possible from the house now building on the above described spot of land to the path leading from the before mentioned road to said Nath'l and Jerusha's house and so on in their path to said well and at all times to return in the like manner."

3. "KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS That I, Samuel Gooch, together with Zeruiah Gooch, my wife, who is deceased, did, on the twenty-ninth day of April, A. D., 1795, make and execute unto Ezekiel Fisher of Canton, a Mortgage Deed of a small piece of land and house thereon, and whereas, by reason of sickness, together with the expense of a large family, no part of said mortgage is paid, the principal thereof being originally thirty-three dollars and one-third of a dollar, which is now due with Int. thereon, and whereas said Ezekiel Fisher has assigned and transferred this same mortgage over to Lem'l Whiting of said Canton, Gent., this same mortgage contains about one fourth of an acre of land with a small house thereon, being in Canton aforesaid, particulars thereof may appear by said mortgage.

Now I, the said Sam'l Gooch, do hereby give unto said Ezekiel Fisher, full possession of said premises, mortgaged as aforesaid, he to occupy, possess, improve and enjoy the same by virtue of said mortgage, free from molestation, disturbance or hindrance of any kind, made or offered by said Samuel.
